Mad Empress Charlotte Is Dead; Life Reads Like Fantastic Tale

BRUSSELS, Jan. 19—Empress [illegible], widow of Maximilian, for a brief time emperor of Mexico, died at her chateau on the outskirts of Brussels at 7 o'clock this morning. Pneumonia was the immediate cause of death.

King Albert and Queen Elizabeth were at the Chateau Bouchout soon after Charlotte died.

The former empress left a fortune of approximately $3,000,000, most of her family property in Austria. It will be divided among relatives. These include King Albert of Belgium, Princess Josephine of Belgium, Princess Josephine Charlotte of Belgium, Prince Charles of Belgium and Dr. Vendome.

Princess Hermine, wife of the ex-Kaiser, who is a daughter of the late Princess Louise, Princess Stephanie, and Princess Clementine, widow of Prince Napoleon.

Like Fantastic Tale

The life of Princess Marie Charlotte Amelia Auguste Victoria of Belgium, wdow of Maximillian of Austria and "Empress of Mexico," runs more like some fantastic tale of fiction than the life of a royal personage.

Princess Charlotte, or "poor Carlotta" as her solicitous country folk called her, had been isolated for the last 50 years in a country chateau. Her mind failed while she was in the prime of life and it was then that her contact with the moving world ended. She has lived in an era long past, an era steeped in tradition, an era which has seen many of the potentates to whom "Poor Carlotta" was related pass into eternity or topple from their throne. And even the roar of the great world war at her very doorsteps failed to arouse her to a realization of the world.

In Brilliant Match

Born and bred at Coburg, Princess Charlotte, the daughter of old King Leopold of Belgium, was a partner in a brilliant love match with Maximillian, younger brother of the Emperor Franz Josef of Austria.

That Charlotte was a driving force in sending her husband on his ill-fated expedition to Mexico is a matter of history. Talk kindly, beloved and the possessor of the grandest set of golden whiskers in central Europe, Maximillian was chosen by Napoleon III to answer the call of the Mexican emigres in Paris, to set sail across the sea and rule the far-off and none too cordial Mexico.

Accordingly, the beautiful princess who wanted to be an empress, and her tall and handsome husband, left the luxurious splendors of the court of Miramar for an unsteady throne in an unfamiliar land.

The expedition met with difficulties. Maximillian took his seat on the unsteady throne but soon found his venture in financial straits and the French troops that had been sent to support him were withdrawn leaving Maximillian the solitary leader of an invisible and alien empire.

Mind Fails Her

Carlottas ambition reasserted itself. Bestowing upon her husband a kiss of encouragement she set sail for Europe. Her mission was to the pope at Rome for support to bolster up the failing enterprise. Rebuffed, she returned to Paris and as she drove out of the streets of Rome she drove out of the world of reality, for it was then that her mind failed her, perhaps a blessing for it spared her the final blow of learning of the execution of her beloved Maximillian, and the wound of the volley which pitched Maximillian into the dust never reached Carlotta's ears.

For 50 years, the empress lived in solitary uncomprehending comfort. There were enacted memories that brought untold joy to the old woman, who ever waited for the day when Maximillian would return to her resplendent in his imperial raiment.

The funeral of the empress will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday at Laeken Cathedral, where she will be buried. Full royal honors will be given.

PAY INCREASE FOR POLICE AND FIREMEN SEEN

Council Finance Committee Tentatively Agrees On $10-a-Month Raise

CHIEFS NOT INCLUDED

Boost Found Possible, Officials Say, by Increased Revenue for Safety Department

Marion policemen and firemen are to be granted an increase in pay, it was indicated today as the finance committee of Council took up the work of completing the city's annual appropriation ordinance, which is scheduled to be acted upon by council at an adjourned session tonight.

The salary scale of police and firemen will be raised to give the men an average increase of $10 a month, according to a tentative agreement reached by the council finance committee. This proposed boost would fix the maximum pay of men in both departments at $150 a month.

Under the present scale, firemen and police receive $125 a month for the first six months of service, $130 during the second six months, $135 beginning with the third six-month period and $140 after being in service 18 months. The new scale would add $10 to each of these figures.

Captains Gets $150

Captains are now paid $150 a month and this will be raised to $160 should the new salary schedule be placed in effect. Chiefs of the two departments, who receive $225 a month, will not be included in the pay boost program.

The increased pay scale for police and firemen has been found possible despite the fact that the council committee has experienced considerable difficulty in keeping budget figures of the various city offices and departments within the amount of revenue that is to be received from taxes and other sources.

Expect Increase

Revenue for the public safety fund, from which expenses of the police and fire departments are paid, will be considerably larger in 1927 than last year, and this circumstance makes the salary increase possible.

Higher pay for police and firemen

INDICTMENTS EXPECTED IN "BEACH ORGIES" CASE

Lake County Sheriff Armed With Warrants For Additional Arrests Today

Painesville, Jan. 19—The Lake County Jury is expected to return nine indictments today against persons who are alleged to have staged a series of "Beach Orgies" at Willoughby, Kitland and other nearby towns.

Public sentiment has been greatly aroused by the reports of tales recited before the grand jury concerning young boys and girls who were taken to the affairs by older men. A mass meeting has been called for tonight at which steps will be taken to end the night revels at cabins along the lake shore which have been conducted for several months.

Sheriff Ed Rasmussen today holds warrants for five additional men on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minor boys and girls and for having committed unnatural offenses. The five have not been located, he declared.

EXPECT CHARLIE CHAPLIN TO LEAVE BED SUNDAY

CHARGES CRUELTY IN DIVORCE ACTION

THE CHAPLIN CHILDREN CHARLES SPENCER AND SIDNEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—Charlie Chaplin, suffering from a nervous breakdown as a result of his wife's divorce suit, probably will be able by Saturday or Sunday to leave his bed of the apartment of his attorney, Nathan Burkan, the comedian's physician, Dr. Gustav Tieck, announced today.

The famous screen player then will leave as soon as possible for Los Angeles to fight the divorce suit. He will begin by seeking a removal of the receivership over his property and also will oppose the award of $1,000 monthly to Lita Grey Chaplin as temporary alimony.

Chaplin has left the liquid diet prescribed for him ever since he collapsed on his arrival in New York. He now is allowed to eat soft food, such as poached eggs and custards, Dr. Tieck said.

"Mr. Chaplin has lost 10 or 15 pounds since his troubles began. Normally he weighs about 135. Now he tips the scale at 118.

"He is considerably better, and with the stronger diet I expect him to regain the lost weight and be able to get out of bed in four or five days. His pulse and temperature are normal."

GOVERNMENT NOT READY TO ARBITRATE QUESTION

Kellogg Declares His Statement Misinterpreted; Does Not Indorse Principle

BULLETIN

Washington, Jan. 19—The American government has not committed itself to settlement of the Mexican controversy by arbitration, Secretary of State Kellogg announced this afternoon.

Secretary Kellogg said his statement issued last night had been "misinterpreted" by newspapers. He had not intended, he said, to express approbation of the Robinson resolution which declares it to be the sense of the senate that the controversy should be settled by arbitration. Nor had he intended to indorse the principle of arbitration as applied to the land-law dispute.

• • •

Washington, Jan. 19—The danger of war with Mexico, which has been lurking in the shadows of the land-law dispute, has virtually been dispelled.

This was generally accepted in Washington today, following Secretary of State Kellogg's announcement of last night, committing the administration to settlement of the Mexican dispute by arbitration. Kellogg said he "welcomed" The Robinson resolution, which declares it to be the sense of the senate that the controversy should be adjusted by peaceable means.

As President Calles already is on record in favor of the same kind of procedure, it remained only to find an avenue today through which the approach to arbitration could be made. Calles informed a committee of Protestant clergymen ten days ago that he was entirely willing to see the dispute go before a bar of expert and judicial opinion.

When Calles made this proposal, informally, the state department ignored

Marion Real Estate Board Formally Approves Revised Ward Redistricting Plan

Action Is Expected To Have Important Bearing Upon City Council's Course of Procedure; Look for Legislators To EastMeasure

The revised ward redistricting plan, submitted to City Council, at its last meeting, was formally approved by the Marion Real Estate board in a motion adopted at a meeting held at Hotel Harding, yesterday afternoon.

This action is expected to have an important bearing upon council's course of procedure, as the real estate board took the lead in opposition to the original redistricting plan and was finally successful in inducing council to reconsider the proposal.

The revised ward boundary arrangement, providing a more equable distribution of population, was placed before council for the first time last week and action was postponed in order to give the public a chance to make known its views.

Because of the fact that the real estate board headed the movement against the original redistricting ordinance, it is believed that its action will result in council adopting the revised plan.

To Come Up Monday

The new redistricting ordinance is scedule to come up for a second reading at the council meeting next Monday night with prospects of adoption at that time.

The city is to be divided into six wards to replace the present four-ward arrangement. This increase is required under a provision of the state law which bases the number of wards on population figures.

Council adopted an ordinance in November outlining boundaries for the new ward plan and shortly afterward various organizations, led by the real estate board, began to file protests. At the outset objections to the plan were aimed mostly at irregularity of boundary lines south of Center st. Unequal distribution of population was finally pointed out as the most serious defect, however, and it was to remedy this condition that council finally decided upon a revision.

FEAR MEXICO TO CUT NUMBER OF PRIESTS

Government Census of Clergymen Causes Rumors; Prelates' Whereabouts Mystery

Mexico City, Jan. 19—Announcement of a government census of clergymen in Mexico has aroused fears here that the government proposes to take action to reduce the number of Catholic priests in the country.

There is some mystery today as to the exact whereabouts of two of the most prominent prelates of Mexico.

Archbishop Jiminez had been reported as leading a rebel band in Jalisco, but the episcopate states that this is not true, and the war department now states that it has no definite confirmation of these reports.

Archbishop Diaz, former spokesman for the episcopate, is reported in Guatemala awaiting a boat for Chile. Although one report says that he is to be returned to Mexico City since Guatemala declines to afford him an asylum. There was some discussion in Catholic circles today as to whether it might not be advisable to ask Cardinal O'Connell of Boston to ask the United States Government to intercede with Guatemala to enable the archbishop to remain there.

The widespread rebellion still is effective. According to reports received here, one report has it that the rebels of Jalisco, which have been reported under the direction of Archbishop Jiminez, are gathering at San Jose De Gracia for a decisive battle with the federals.

MAYOR ORDERS WALKS CLEARED OF ICE, SNOW

Instructs Police to Enforce Edict; Cold Wave to Return Forecast

With police instructed by Mayor Earl M. Hazen to see that all sidewalks in the business section are cleared of snow and ice at once, some heavy shoveling on the part of local residents was seen, with the second cold wave due to arrive here tonight.

The mayor's edict on the clean sidewalk question came almost at the same time as the word from the weatherman that the cold snap will return tonight, and that snow will be general throughout northern Ohio tonight and tomorrow.

Mayor's Edict

Sidewalks in the up-town business district must be completely cleared of snow and ice, Mayor Hazen decreed this morning and instructed officers to serve notice on store proprietors.

The order was issued under the provisions of an ordinance which requires removal of snow and ice from walks and makes the owner of a business house liable to arrest for failure to comply with the rule.

Mayor Hazen issued his order early today when many sidewalks in the up-town district were found to be covered with ice that created a dangerous situation for pedestrians.

Sheets of ice on roads and sidewalks, with snow to follow the freezing weather forecast for this section of Ohio today. The weatherman reported that the cold wave headed this way would arrive within a few hours.

The temperature will drop even lower tomorrow, the weatherman added. Local snows in the northern section of the state will accompany the cold spell.

Travel Halted

At the Marion Auto Club today it was reported that through travel by automobile was practically at a standstill today. With roads covered with ice, travel was dangerous and travelers were depending on traction and train service for transportation. The few

Clifford A. Owens Lauds Industrial Expansion Efforts of Organization In Letter

Praise for the Marion Chamber of Commerce and its president and active head, George B. Knapp, for the work that has been accomplished by that organization in bringing new industries to Marion, is contained in a letter written by Clifford A. Owens, vice president of the Osgood Co., and local industrial leader, and sent to The Star.

In his communication Mr. Owens briefly recites some of the organization's activities in seeking to better the city's industrial and commercial life. He points out that every city in the country is competing for new factories.

To Mr. Knapp, who has taken the leadership in the organization's industrial development efforts, Mr. Owens gives the major share of credit.

His letter follows:

"The article published in yesterday's Star regarding the progress of the Marion Chamber of Commerce membership campaign indicates either a lack of your acquaintance with the chamber's activities, or lack of that body's co-operation in furnishing you with a complete story of what it is accomplishing.

"Every city in the country is competing against all the others for new industries. It is almost a clamor, wherever you go. Without doubt, that is of first importance, and Marion has been exceptionally fortunate and successful in this respect since Mr. Knapp became president of the chamber. But there are so many other ways in which a properly organized and directed chamber of commerce protects and advances the general interests of citizens that the single-track idea of new industries is likely to be overdone.

"If you ask me, I suggest you attempt to show the varied ser-

Women in Congress United for Larger Navy; at Least

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—American women are for plenty of military preparedness, if their vote in congress represents them accurately.

When the question of money to build three new cruisers, came up in the lower house of the national legislature recently, every single one of the three congresswomen favored the appropriation.

FLORENCE P KAHN

It's significant that they answered the roll-call as women, not as partisans. Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn of California and Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts are Republicans. Congresswoman Mary T. Norton of New Jersey is a Democrat.

They didn't vote as a feminist bloc, either. They hadn't talked the cruiser question over in advance among themselves. None knew how the other two were going to vote until they voted.

They were on the losing side but perhaps that made the contrast all the more noticeable. The congressmen proved to be a trifle more than 50 per cent little navyites. The congresswomen's score was 100 per cent big navy-ite.

• • •

CONGRESSWOMAN Kahn hit the preparedness nail another crack on the head a few days later in a speech she made in support of a first-first army.

She didn't argue for such a big military establishment, but she did ask for a good one. She wanted the regular army kept up to 125,000 men, as provided in 1920, instead of permitting it to slump to about 113,000, as at present. With this, a sure-enough national guard, reserves and citizens' training camps, she said she'd be satisfied.

"But I'm opposed to wooden soldiers and blueprint ships," she added.

• • •

"THE trouble is", observed Congresswoman Kahn, "that too many people believe universal peace is just around the corner.

"Why, there's universal peace talk in the Old Testament"!

Congresswoman Kahn makes it clear that she's no militarist but she isn't convinced that war is ended and wants at least a nucleus of a force to meet it half way in case it pops on the country suddenly.

• • •

CONGRESSWOMAN Kahn isn't alone in the house of representatives in the opinion that the army and navy are falling into a state of serious dilapidation, but perhaps it's a little odd that he campaign for rehabilitation should be launched by a woman, backed by the entire feminine delegation in congress.

The woman's congressional bloc is also predominantly wet, another respect in which it differs from what most folk probably would have expected from a group of the most recently enfranchised sex. In the house of representatives, Congresswoman Kahn has even been suggested as the house's wet leader. It isn't even certain that she won't accept the post in the next congress.

Women are supposed to be pacifism's chief strength, prohibition's chief anchor. Can it be that they're for Mars and Bacchus?

By no means, says Congresswoman Kahn—military strength is peace insurance; temperance means sensible regulation, not prohibition—women are for peace, not pacifism; for moderation, not fanaticism.

This is the way, at least, that Congresswoman Kahn puts it.

• • •

CONGRESSWOMAN Kahn, Rogers and Norton are the only congresswomen who, thus far, have been re-elected.

Hitherto they have been regarded as political accidents, which it was considered most unlikely could be repeated. Repetition takes them out of the class of accidents. They're here now on their merits.

They're recognized, too, as three of the most useful members of the house of representatives.

Directors Plan Construction of New Homes in Vernon Heights Addition

Election of officers and discussion of building and development plans for 1927 took place at the annual meeting of the Vernon Heights Realty Co.'s board of directors held at the company's office on W. Center-st yesterday afternoon. Plans for construction of a number of new homes are already under way and a program of other improvements in the sub-division has been outlined by the directors.

All officers of the company were re-elected, as follows: R. T. Lewis, president and sales manager; Millard Hunt, vice president; and George B. Knapp, secretary and treasurer.

The board of directors consists of these three officials and Chester C. Roberts, Harry J. Mantz, George E. Frank and Hoke Donithen.

The board, made up of the same members who served during 1926, were elected at the annual stockholders' meeting, held last week.

SUIT AGAINST MARION MAN COMES TO CLOSE

Attachment Proceedings Involving William L. Galloway, 25, Settled in Court

Legal proceedings involving William L. Galloway, 25, of Fairground-st, were brought to a close in Municipal Court, yesterday, when an attachment suit brought against him by George Smith, N. Main-st grocer, in which Galloway's automobile was held pending payment of a $27 grocery bill, was settled and the car returned to its owner.

Galloway was arrested about two weeks ago on proceedings started by the Marion County Humane Society, charging him with failure to support his wife and three small children. He was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse by Municipal Judge Martin but the sentence was suspended when he filed a $500 bond to guarantee support of his family in the future.

The attachment suit for the grocery bill was started following Galloway's arrest and his machine was held as security until settlement was effected yesterday.

BELL HOP HOPS TO MANAGERSHIP OF LARGE HOTEL

John Ackret at the room clerk's desk of hotel.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 19—From bell hop to hotel manager in two years! This is not the title of a Horatio Alger tale but the life story of John Ackret, 28, of Lakewood, O., a suburb of this city.

He came to the Hollenden hotel, here, two years ago as a bell boy and is now resigning to become assistant to the vice president and manager of the Hotel Deming at Terre Haute, Ind.

"Hopping bells" is a mighty fine job for a young chap who wants to get ahead," explains Ackret. "He learns to know people and how to handle them. He sees a different side of human nature than does the clerk at the desk. Guests treat him with more familiarity and they depend on him for information about town, amusements and a thousand and one topics. In learning to answer their queries intelligently, he of course improves himself, thereby paving the way for future success."

Since Ackret's contagious smile and his popularity with guests pleased the management, his request to be made supervisor of service after serving a short apprenticeship at hopping bells was granted. He then was promoted to room clerk.

HOUSING SITUATION HERE IMPROVING, BOARD SAYS

Vacant Homes in City Steadily Decreasing, Discussion Discloses at Meeting

Improvement in Marion's housing situation was reported at a meeting of the Marion Real Estate Board, held at Hotel Harding, yesterday afternoon.

The number of vacant homes in the city is steadily decreasing, the discussion disclosed, so that at this time vacancies here are considerably below the normal figure for cities of this size.

There are prospects of continued improvement during 1927, local realtors report.

Discussion of the situation at yesterday's meeting was led by George B. Knapp, president of the local Chamber of Commerce.

CHARGES AGAINST BUS DRIVER ARE WITHDRAWN

Action Taken When Authorities Learn Machines Are Operating Under Michigan Rules

Charges filed against Theodore Seegert of Detroit, driver of one of the Columbus-Detroit buses arrested here last Thursday morning for operating a bus with a 1926 license attached, were withdrawn in the Local Municipal Court yesterday when it was learned that the company is operating under automobile regulations in Michigan, where a time extension was granted on last year's license plates.

Following Seegert's arrest at the local bus station, Clerk Powell of the Municipal Court wrote to Michigan authorities and received a reply stating that use of 1926 licenses was permitted in that state until Jan. 17 and that a further extension might be granted.

Seegert was taken into custody here by a local police officer, but was permitted to continue his trip to Detroit on his promise to return here for a hearing.

4 out of 5 start too late

Among the people you see today, four out of five past forty (and many younger) are victims of Pyorrhea—simply because they started too late to protect teeth and gums.

Pyorrhea starts with tender, bleeding gums. Unchecked, it undermines youth and health and often results in loss of teeth, neuritis, ulcers, rheumatism or other serious diseases.

But have no fear. If you start in time, you can prevent or check the inroads of Pyorrhea. See your dentist at least twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

This dentifrice thwarts Pyorrhea or checks it. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., a recognized specialist in Pyorrhea.

Forhan's firms the gums, keeps them healthy. It protects teeth and keeps them white.

Don't gamble with health! Start the Forhan morning-and-night habit, now. Teach your children to use it, too, as health-insurance. Play safe. Get a tube today. At all druggists, 35c and 60c.

Thousands are keeping breath sweet and fresh this new way. We promise you'll never go back to ordinary mouthwashes that only conceal unpleasant breath with embarrassing odors of their own after you have used Forhan's Antiseptic Refreshant. Try it.

Why Be Old At Forty?

Renew Your Nerve Force by Scientific Stimulation

Iron out the wrinkles and fill out the lines and hollows with firm, stay-there flesh and you can take ten years off your age. If you want to radiate the magnetism of perfect health like the vigorous looking men you see around you, try taking a scientifically balanced digestive stimulant, three times a day. Men and women all around you are gaining new strength in this way and there is no reason why you should continue to be run-down and lacking in vigor and snap.

You should watch yourself constantly. At the first sign of weakness, the first day you find yourself tiring easily, the very minute your nerves get on edge, you should start taking this great stimulant. When the symptoms first show—that's the time to start to get well. To delay is dangerous—many fatal maladies start from neglect of just such common, seemingly unimportant symptoms as these.

A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.—Adv.

DAINTIES AND MONEY TAKEN FROM GROCERY

Davids-st Grocery Burglarized During Night; $7 in Small Change in Loot

Burglars who evidently possessed a taste for dainties broke into the F. E. Roderick grocery, 400 Davids-st, Monday night and carried away loot that consisted chiefly of candy, chewing gum and bakery pies. In addition, they took a number of cigars and about $7 in small change that Mr. Roderick had left in the cash drawer. The total loss is estimated at about $25.

Entrance to the store was effected by removing a section of glass from the rear door and unlatching the night lock.

Police were notified but are without clews which might lead to capture of the burglars.

OHIO FARMERS VICTORS IN FERTILIZER BATTLE

Columbus, Jan. 18—Ohio farmers won a battle from the railroads of the state, when the state utilities commission ordered a new schedule of reduced rates on fertilizer.

The commission upheld claims of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation representing 38,000 organized farmers, that fertilizer rates in carload lots, between intrastate points, were excessively high. A new schedule, ranging from six cents per 100 pounds for minimum five-mile hauls, up to 27 cents on hauls of 500 to 520 miles, the order becomes effective in 120 days, and affects thousands of Ohio farmers.

Final Report on Results of Erie's "Better Bull" Special Given by Division Agent

20,000 Farmers and Dairymen Visit Train Exhibit During Tour of Ohio Cities, Records Show; Forty Animals Sold Along Route

The final results of the Erie Railroad "Better Bull" special train operated through Marion and Ohio cities recently have been announced by C. L. Farrell, divison freight and passenger agent, Dayton, who gives a report of the tour.

Approximately 20,000 farmers and dairymen visited the train during the ten days it was out, the report shows. Forty bulls were sold, 28 direct to dairymen visited the train during the commercial organizations to be given away in an effort to raise the general standard among farm herds.

Get Co-operation

Co-operation of the animal husbandry department of Ohio State University college of agriculture the Jersey, Holstein Guernsey, and Ayrshire breed associations, and industrial concerns, was obtained by H. B. Rogers, Erie chief agricultural agent, T. M. Palmer, Erie Agricultural agent, and Mr. Farrell.

Because of the great interest shown in the train, Mr. Farrell believes farm herds will show gradual improvement, both from introduction of the pure bred bull and through instructions in feeding and general care of animals given by Ohio State University instructors.

Stock Returned

Following the tour of the train the blooded bulls and prize-winning milk cows were returned by the Erie to the breeders who had placed them on the train.

Bulls brought from $75 to $225 each and this money went to the cow breeders like the idea, Mr. Farrell reports, because it gives them an opportunity to offer their animals for sale without undue large costs.

Clear Tracks

Extra workmen about the Union Station here yesterday were kept busy clearing away the snow from the platforms and tracks. All trains operated through Marion on schedule time, in spite of the snowy storm.

To Attend Meeting

Track Supervisor F. A. Sparks of this district of the Hocking Valley Railroad will attend the meeting of officials at the Neil House, Columbus, Monday at which the trophy will be presented to the winner of the Hocking Valley safety contest.

Wanted, One Widow, Plea of Lonely Man; Scores Respond

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 19—Ever since George B. Hall, of Omaha, Neb., read a news dispatch in a paper that Chamberlain, S. D., with a population of little over 1,000, has 41 widows, he's been having the time of his life. For life for George now is just one grand round of widows of all shapes—long and slender, short and round, just plump and plain fat, plain and pretty.

GEORGE B. HALL

After Hall, who is past 60, and a widower and father, saw the story about the widows in Chamberlain he said:

"When I strut my stuff, there'll only be 40 widows in that town."

Hall wrote a letter to a Chamberlain paper and, for fear he wouldn't give all the widows a chance to bid for him, he wrote also, to a Sioux Falls paper, and signed his name and address to both communications.

And Then—The Deluge!

Hall blinked at the first consignment of letters from South Dakota. The second and third made him blink harder. It seemed that a few thousand widows were looking for husbands. So he bought a few dollars worth of stamps and began answering the widows.

Now he's going to marry a widow, except she's from Sioux Falls, not Chamberlain, and the Chamberlain widows are a bit sore about it all. A trip to Sioux Falls to meet one of the fair writers of the letters to him caused Hall to lose his heart so thoroughly that he became poetic and indited the following lines to his intended:

"I met you only yesterday;
I knew I liked you right away.
And if you like my ways and style
I'll know you better after while."

Uh huh! Wedding bells'll soon be ringing for Hall. Why shouldn't they? He declared he's not so hard to please and he's had dozens of widows to choose from. But he's fearfully secretive about the name of the bride he's picked.

Smith Seeks Admittance At Door of Senate Today

PRESENTATION OF CREDENTIALS FIGHT SIGNAL

Senator Deneen, Illinois, Asks That Oath of Office Be Administered at Once

Washington, Jan. 19—After weeks of hesitancy and conferences and bitter criticism, Frank L. Smith of Illinois, came to the door of the senate today and demanded admittance under an appointment by Governor Len Small.

The Smith fight formally opened when Senator Deneen, Republican, of Illinois, presented the senator-designate's credentials and asked that the oath of office be administered to him at once.

Deneen asked the senate to grant the oath so that he might participate in senatorial activities until his case is finally settled. Deneen drew out of the pigeon holes of the senate, a score of credentials in which senators-designate and senators-elect were given their seats even though election contest were filed against them.

Deneen's Argument

In the case of Colonel Frank L. Smith there is no charge that he lacks the qualifications specified in the constitution. He is 30 years of age. Is a citizen of the United States and has been for over nine years, was an inhabitant of the State of Illinois when elected, and has never violated the provisions of the fourteenth amendment. Therefore under the precedents he is entitled to take the oath of office," Deneen stressed the precedent established in 1849 when the senate gave the oath to Major General Shields, elected a senator from Illinois. He quoted Stephen Douglas at length defending the seating of Shields, whose election by the state legislature had been contested. Douglas demanded that Shields be sworn and the contest investigated afterwards. The senate then gave Shields his oath, Deneen said.

Reed Answers

Smith's right to a seat was formally challenged by Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, chairman of the campaign fund committee, which revealed that the Illinois man had spent $458,000 in his primary campaign. Reed moved that Smith be denied the oath of office and his credentials be referred to the senate elections committee.

Galleries Crowded

Smith arrived early, entering the senate fifteen minutes before the session convened. He was warmly greeted by members from both sides of the chamber while his former colleagues in the house, who were present, rushed to shake hands with him.

Vice President Dawes called the senate to order promptly at 11 o'clock and Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas, the floor leader, called for a quorum. There were 81 senators answering present on the roll call, indicating a heavy vote could be secured on the question of giving Smith the oath.

Poll Against Smith

A poll taken by International News Service showed at least 52 senators opposed to giving Smith the oath of office. Early indications, based on the poll were that the vote against Smith will be taken today—would be approximately 54 to 37, with four senators absent.

The procedure, which Smith's opponents planned to follow, was to support a resolution, referring his governor's certificate to the senate committee on privileges and elections without granting him the formality of taking the oath. This would preclude Smith from becoming a member of the senate on his present appointment as an overwhelming majority stands ready to exclude him whenever the final vote is taken. Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, whose committee last summer revealed that Smith spent a fortune in his primary, was to present the motion.

Friends of Smith meanwhile were to rally behind the counter-resolution, sponsored by Senator Deneen, giving Smith the oath and then referring his case to the elections committee. This motion was certain of defeat, but its proponents planned to go down fighting.

Old-Fashioned Mother Out of Date, Don't Bring Her Back, Pleads Ford

Editor's Note: Henry Ford, the world's richest man, has broken his silence on the subject of women. Up to this time he has consistently refused to have faith in women writers, declaring "they lack the requisite experience," however, the Detroit motor magnate, playing the role of "landlord" at his historic Wayside Inn, South Sudbury, Mass., gave to an International News Service special correspondent the first, exclusive, authorized interview ever granted to a noted woman writer on the subject of women. This is the first of a series of thre articles.

BY THEODATE GEOFFREY

World-travelled journalist, mother of three children, Author of "Powdered Ashes," "An Immigrant In Japan," etc. (Copyright, 1927, By International News Service. All Rights Reserved. Reproduction In Whole Or In Part Strictly Prohibited).

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Jan. 19.—"The old-fashioned mother is out of date," Henry Ford told me.

"No one wants to bring her back. We don't want to bring back things that are out of date. We can preserve the charm of the old life without its inconveniences."

We were in the "tap room" of the Old Wayside Inn, built in 1686.

Mr. Ford had come to meet me, with his springy step that is in such striking contrast to his stooped shoulders, grey hair and deep-lined face.

He had just come from the kitchen of the inn, in which he has spared no expense to gather a complete collection of old-time utensils and furniture.

I remarked that among these old colonial chairs, kettles and spinning wheels, I missed the picture of the old-fashioned mother, the virtual prisoner in those old kitchens, around whom the life of the household had revolved. Then Mr. Ford made his startling statement.

"We must take the drudgery out of housekeeping to set women free to develop," Mr. Ford went on.

"The first step is to do away with domesticated animals. We must stop feeding forage and grain to animals to be made into nourishment for us, find some way of producing the proper nourishment for the human being more directly, more scientifically.

"Beef, mutton, poultry, fish, are all labor-making forms of food. They are difficult to prepare and the process of cooking them takes too long a time.

More Efficient Food

"Cows, sheep, chickens must go, viewed as food for people.

"We can make more efficiently and more scientifically by formula. In our laboratory at Dearborn we have done something on that line already and are studying it constantly. However, it has not yet reached the state where it can be marketed effectively nor are people ready for it yet.

"In diet, a great deal depends on what you are used to. Arctic exploration has taught us a lot about what a man can live on, in the way of rations scientifically compounded and economically compressed. Men like Stefansson have shown by experiment, in their long trips, that what counts is what a man gets used to.

"But you have to have the right formula to attain the right results. Now take the Eskimos. They are able to live largely on blubber, but they don't seem to produce much in the way of civilization on that diet!

"You have to remember that you can only get out of a machine what you feed into it. You must give it the right materials to get desired results.

"Getting food from domesticated animals is a highly expensive way of producing energy."

I tried to imagine how it would taste to make a dinner out of a "compressed chemical compound" instead of a juicy steak. Then I asked Mr. Ford how he regulated his own diet. He is very spare in build, but wiry and seemingly full of energy.

"Oh, I have to have a diet planned out. I must have a balanced ration," he admitted. "It doesn't do to trust to our natural appetites on that sort of thing. Why, I have seen people who were so fond of sugar that they would be willing to live on it for a while. There's lots of energy in sugar, but it is a special kind of energy, too expensive to feed the body that way, we must use science in planning it out.

Inn Described

Mr. Ford is playing the part of "mine host" in the 250-year old hostelry, built when "men lived in a grander way, with ampler hospitality," and set in the snow-clad fields and woods of South Sudbury.

The Tap Room of this "Red House Tavern," is low-ceiled, with oaken panelling, worn old tables and chairs and settees of pine and oak, and in one corner stands the ancient bar with bottles and flin glasses ranged ready behind it, just as it was when Washington and LaFayette rode up the old Boston-Worcester Postroad and as it was in later years when Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote about it in "Tales of a Wayside Inn."

"A region of repose it seems,
"A place of slumber and of dreams,
"Remote among the wooded hills."

(In tomorrow's article Mr. Ford discusses jazz and the younger generation.)

It. The department was similarly uncommunicative toward a similar proposal advanced by Senator Borah republican of Idaho, in his speech last week criticising the administration's policy in Latin-America.

The Robinson resolution, however, was backed by a recognized majority in the senate, and Kellogg abandoned his policy of silence to support it.

"I see nothing inappropriate or untimely or in an expression of opinion on the subject by the senate and I welcome it," Kellogg.

While no mention was made of the agency to be used in adjudicating the controversy, it is believed the general claims commission, set up in the recognition treaties with Mexico, will be called upon. Charles B. Warren, ex-ambassador to Mexico, advised this course last week when he was summoned to Washington by President Coolidge.

Administration officials were hopeful today that Kellogg's virtual acceptance of arbitration would serve to extinguish the fires of debate and criticism in congress, which reached heights yesterday that dumbfounded even the oldest members.

Fiery Religious Debate

For the first time within memory of sitting senators, members participated in a fiery religious debate—started when Senator Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, attacked the attitude of the Catholic Church in the Mexican situation. He charged the church with seeking to drag the United States into war with Mexico.

Half a dozen members replied to his charges and denied them, and for several hours torrents of impassioned oratory poured through the senate. Reed of Missouri, Walsh of Massachusetts, Broussard of Louisiana, Walsh of Montana, Ashurst of Arizona, and Bruce, of Maryland, all Democrats, answered the Alabaman.

MEXICAN OFFICIALS HOPEFUL OVER NEWS

Mexico City, Jan. 19—News that Secretary of State Kellogg has announced his willingness to arbitrate the differences with Mexico over the land and oil laws, was received in official circles here with undisguised satisfaction.

While officials were disinclined to make any comment until a formal proposal for arbitration has been submitted, they readily admitted that President Calles has been hopeful that the dispute might be taken from the field of diplomatic exchanges and transferred into the quieter realm of international judicial procedure.

It is expected here that instead of submitting the entire issue to arbitration that a specific case will be selected and submitted, providing that the United States Senate has agreed to arbitration. It is suggested here that The Hague tribunal should be the arbitrating body, and submission to this body would require senate approval.

SEE EFFORT TO SPLIT NICARAGUA

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 19—That the Nicaraguan war is no longer a question between the liberals and conservatives but is a question of the Atlantic Coast seceding from the rest of Nicaragua is the interpretation placed upon the recent utterances of General Mena, liberal leader, in conservative circles here. The government anticipates that an effort will be made to partition Nicaragua.

The government forces and the liberals are drawing their lines for a battle at Telica Hill, but apparently the liberals are anxious to delay the battle until they secure additional war supplies, which are now most difficult to procure due to the American activities in patrolling the coast.

Zapata, the liberal leader, who was driven to Costa Rica has reappeared near San Juan Del Sur on the Pacific Coast.

HECTOR S. YOUNG APPEARS BEFORE JOINT COMMITTEE

Has Part in Legislative Discussion on Proposed State Corporation Law Changes

Plans for revision and codification of Ohio's corporation laws, advocated by the Ohio Bar Association, were discussed at a joint session of the judiciary committees of both branches of the general assembly held in Columbus yesterday, with Hector S. Young, local attorney, acting as one of the Bar Association's representatives. Mr. Young is a member of the association's legislative committee, which has been assigned to the task of urging the legislature to revise the state's corporation laws.

Paul J. Rickel of Cleveland, a member of the law firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, acting as spokesman for the Bar Association committee, assailed the present corporation law arrangement as being "deficient, incomplete, antiquated, inconsistent, ambiuous and thoroughly outdated."

Five members of the legislative committee, in addition to Mr. Young, attended the hearing. Both the house and senate judiciary committees are reported to view the proposed conification and revision with favor and are expected to recommend adoption of the new plan.

Following the hearing, Mr. Young attended a banquet at the Neil House, attended by members of his committee and a number of legislators from both the house and senate.

The judiciary committees set another hearing on the corporation law proposal for a week from next Tuesday.

MANY GROUPS NEARING GOAL IN C. OF C. DRIVE

Organization Seeking 600 Members and $3,000 Industrial Development Fund

Additional reports of progress in the campaign being carried on this week to increase the membership of the Marion Chamber of Commerce to 600 or more were received today from chairmen of the 15 groups of business and professional men in charge of the work.

Although the division representing the steam shovel industry is the only one that has obtained its quota of memberships, others report that they are well along toward their goal with virtual assurance of going over the top within the next few days.

It is absolutely essential that the membership be increased to the 600 mark in order that the organization may be in position to carry out its program of community service with a full measure of effectiveness, officers of the chamber stated today.

Below Average

The membership now is considerably below the average for communities of this size and should the 600 mark be attained the total would still be less than the enrollment in a number of other Ohio cities of similar population, it is pointed out.

Zanesville, with a smaller population than Marion, has a chamber of commerce enrollment of 795 and many cities of the same class have membership totals approaching that figure.

The board of directors of the local organization has decided, however, that with an enrollment of 600 the chamber of commerce here will be able to finance its activities satisfactorily. A two-year budget and program, covering 1927 and 1928, have been drawn up by the directors on a 600 membership basis. This includes plans for a campaign to bring new industries to the city and to accomplish other important work for the benefit of the community as a whole. Success in the execution of these projects will be impossible, it is stated, unless the chamber is provided with increased resources.

CHARGE NEWARK MAYOR WITH ATTACKING GIRL

One More Chapter in Stirring Political Feud; "Frame-Up," Says Stevens

Newark, Jan. 19—Another chapter in the stirring political feud between Mayor W. H. N. Stevens of Newark, and his opponents, was the explanation given today by the mayor's friends of the latest charge against the mayor, following his arrest last night on an affidavit signed by Clarence Chenoweth, charging that the mayor attacked Mrs. Irene Chenoweth, wife of the complainant and a former city employe.

The affidavit was filed Dec. 11, but no warrant was served until last night. Stevens was released upon $1,000 bond. He was already under heavy bond on charges previously filed, alleging that he solicited bribes.

"It is part of the 'frame-up'" the mayor declared today. "I never laid hands upon that girl, or any other girl. I don't understand why they waited until now to serve me, unless they wanted an opportune moment to keep me from the trial of Police Officer Howard Williams."

Williams, one of the officers who arrested the mayor on the charge of soliciting bribes, was suspended shortly after the incident and was scheduled to face trial before the mayor late yesterday. The arrest of the mayor prevented the hearing for Williams.

Washington, Jan. 19—Despite the rejection of his nomination by the Interstate Commerce, Cyrus E. Woods, Pennsylvania, will be confirmed by the senate as interstate commerce commissioner, Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, told President Coolidge today.

SOVIET OIL TRUST SENDS DELEGATE INTO TULSA

Moscow, Jan. —Representatives of the Soviet Oil Trust will attend the meeting of the American Oil Institute in Tulsa, Oklahoma, it is announced here. The American Oil Institute's invitation to its meeting has just been received by the "Azneft."

The conference between Soviet and American oilmen is considered significant in view of the interest which has been displayed by American oil concerns in the Soviet petroleum fields.

The recent heavy purchases of Soviet oil by the Vacuum Oil Company is taken as an indication of possible further development of business connections between the oil interests of both countries.

motorists braving the slippery streets were cautious and accidents were very few, and what did occur were of minor damages to machines from skidding. Bus schedules were slowed up by road conditions, and drivers were anticipating more trouble when the freezing starts tonight. Trains and traction lines were not affected much today.

Motorists Walk

With ice covered streets making driving dangerous many motorists walked this morning. Sidewalks in some places were worse than the streets, and falls were frequent and disastrous. Water, carrying a liberal cargo of soot and dirt from the accumulation of several weeks, formed in pools and most of the falls were where the water was deepest. Clothing and dispositions suffered most of the damage. Only one man was reported injured in a fall.

H. C. Ault, 207 E. Mark-st, was at his home today in a semi-conscious condition, from a fall on the icy pavement last night. The accident occurred on N. State-st.

Mr. Ault, a motorman on the State and Main-st cars, had placed his car in the N. State-st barns for the night and had been standing near the tracks in front of the shops watching the night freight before departing for home when his feet slipped. He fell backwards and the back of his head struck the rail.

Mr. Ault was knocked unconscious and has not completely regained his senses today. He was taken to his home by E. C. Mackens city car foreman.

ARREST MAN WANTED FOR KILLING "STAR" BOARDER

Slaying Occurred in Cincinnati Suburb in November, According to Officials

Cincinnati, Jan. 19—Fred B. Fortney, 30, was to be returned to Cincinnati today from Lynchburg, Va., to face a charge of murdering Loren Paris, Reardstown, Ill., in a Cincinnati suburb last November.

Paris, according to county officers, was the alleged "star boarder" at the home of Fortney's divorced wife.

The accused man, who has been sought for some time on an indictment charging the crime, was located in Lynchburg through a telegram sent to local authorities by a woman signing the name of "Etta Mae Shelly" of Lynchburg.

The woman, if located, will probably get a $1,200 reward which was posted for Fortney's capture.

"The mice are house mice. They invade barns, buildings and homes, overrunning the whole countryside. Many Kern County residents have had their clothing destroyed, linen and bedding that is not stored in containers have been completely consumed in many places."

It was estimated at the university that one pair of mice which begin reproducing at the age of three months, and every 20 days there after at a rate of six offsprings, during one year would have 10,146 descendants.

has been advocated for several months and although council members favored the proposal from the outset it was thought that revenue limits would prevent granting an increase. This obstacle is reported to be removed as a result of the finance committee's deliberations in connection with the annual appropriation ordinance during the last few weeks.

Reductions Necessary

Other departments are not so favorably situated and reductions have been found necessary in budget estimates made for 1927 expenses. Making these adjustments has required long deliberation at several sessions of the finance committee.

While preparation of the appropriation ordinance has not been fully completed, only a few details remain to be ironed out, and this will be accomplished at a caucus which will precede tonight's Council meeting, according to present plans.

The appropriations for all municipal expenses during 1927 will total about the same as the 1926 appropriations, R. E. Prettyman, chairman of the finance committee, stated today.

POLICE LAUNCH DRIVE TO RID CITY OF TRAMPS

One Negro Held Under Arrest Following Extensive Round-up Last Night

Starting a clean-up drive planned by the police department to rid the city of tramps and other suspicious characters who are blamed for a series of hold-ups and robberies which culminated in the shooting of R. L. Goetting in a battle with two negro bandits at his Lee-st grocery, last Saturday night, local officers rounded up a gang of six negroes in the stone quarry district north of the city last night, drove five of them out of town and placed one under arrest.

The man taken into custody was attired in a leather coat, similar to a coat worn by one of the bandits who attempted to hold up Mr. Goetting. He is held at the city prison, registered as Tom Chism, 43, of Charleston, W. Va. He denies that he had anything to do with the Goetting case.

Plan Other Raids

Police state that they will continue to make similar raids in the Railroad yards, and other localities which have been harboring places for vagrants. Arrests will be made where any of the tramps are found in possession of weapons or there are other circumstances to arouse suspicion.

In the meantime, the three negro suspects taken into custody by Sheriff James A. Deal following the Goetting hold-up are held at the County Jail until Mr. Goetting is able to leave the hospital and ascertain whether he can recognize any of them as the bandits who visited his store.

Goetting Improves

Reports stated today that Mr. Goetting is recovering rapidly from his wounds and will be able to leave the hospital within a few days.

William Miles, one of the negroes held at the jail, is said to answer closely to description of one of the Goetting store hold-up air. He also wore a leather coat, which is the only definite mark of identification furnished police in their search.

Hines Hopes Legislation Will Assist Making of Loans

Washington, Jan. 19—With the approval of President Coolidge, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans bureau, will ask congress to pass promptly legislation enabling the veterans bureau to make loans on adjusted compensation certificates.

Hines discussed the proposal with the president today.

The money would come out of the veterans' insurance fund, which already totals $215,000,000, Hines said.

Hines declared that 17,000 loans to soldiers have been made by the banks all over the country.

SENATOR POINTS OUT STUDENTS' DEFICIENCIES

College and High School Entrance Examinations Suggested by Legislators

Columbus, Jan. 19—Assertion that many pupils in schools throughout Ohio are so deficient mentally that they could never graduate from a reputable university or college was voiced here today by Senator William R. Comings, Lorain, and other members of the senate committee on colleges and university. Comings is chairman of the committee.

These remarks were made while the committeemen, in session, considered the bill, by Senator Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, providing that students must pass entrance examinations before being admitted to Ohio State University or other state-supported educational institutions. A majority of the committeemen indicated their intention of recommending passage of the bill. Another meeting will be held by the committee next week.

Would Weed Undesirables

Senator Herbert, discussing his college entrance examination bill, declared that approximately 1,000 students leave Ohio State University each year after only three months' college work. The state, he said, would be saved thousands of dollars by weeding out these students through rigid entrance examinations.

Senator John S. Edwards, Licking County, said he would favor the bill if action was first taken on a measure providing for high school entrance examinations. Other members of the committee endorsed entrance tests for high schools.

RUSSIAN GRAIN AND ORE ARE BEGINNING TO MOVE

Moscow, Jan. —Millions of tons of grain and ore which piled up in Black Sea ports awaiting transport facilities during the strike of coal miners in England, are beginning to be moved on steamers released by the ending of the strike.

Owing to the great demand for steamers to carry coal to England during the strike, shipping costs rose until they reached 35 shillings a ton from Black Sea ports to continental destinations. Even at this price few steamers were to be had, and by the end of seven months of the strike, the Soviet warehouses at the principal export points were over-filled. Thousands of tons of grain had to be stored in hastily constructed sheds.

Common sense doesn't always find agreeable things to do; not by any means.

U. S. AWAITING NEXT MOVE IN CONTROVERSY

Conciliatory Efforts in Tacna-Arica Controversy Depending on Peru or Chile

Washington, Jan. 19—Either Peru or Chile must make the next move in the 43 year old Tacna-Arica controversy, if they hope to have the United States continue its conciliatory efforts. This government, it became known today, has no new plan of settlement to offer, having pinned what in effect constituted its final hope on Secretary Kellogg's proposal to cede the disputed territory to a third party, Bolivia, for an undetermined consideration.

While Peru's flat rejection of the Kellogg proposal is viewed in official circles here as having closed the door, for the time being at least, to further concrete peace moves by the United States, both President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg have suggested that this government is not contemplating the withdrawal of its pledge to use its good offices in attempting to reach a satisfactory settlement.

To Continue Work

President Coolidge, through his official spokesman, has said that the State Department will continue to work for an acceptable arrangement until it is convinced that the entire range of possible solutions has been exhausted.

That this exhaustion point has already been reached is indicated by Kellogg's last note to Chile, Peru and Bolivia, in which he stated that apparently "there are but three ways to deal with the disputed territory."

"You can," he said, "assign it all to one of the contestants; you can divide it between them on some basis to be defined; or you can effect some arrangement whereby neither contestant shall get any of the territory."

These three plans have now been rejected by either or both of the contesting countries.

Motive for Rejection

The underlying motive for Peru's rejection of the Kellogg proposal is reported here to be the desire of the Peruvian president, Leguia, to keep the Tacna-Arica dispute alive until the national elections to be held in August, 1929. There is a liberal movement on foot in Peru to amend the constitution so that Leguia can not succeed himself, but the president hopes to defeat this movement by convincing the electorate that he should be kept in office until the Tacna-Arico problem is satisfactorily disposed of.

A few days ago four feet of snow fell at Wiseman, Alaska. And all these years we imagined that we really knew something about winter weather!

A New Orleans man broke one of his legs while enroute to church to get married. If he is a bit inclined to be superstitious, that's liable to set him guessing.

"Missing Georgian Held on Arson Charge," read a headline in a morning paper yesterday, from which we assume that the charge also is missing.

With forty-four legislatures in session, no mortal man can even guess how many thousands of laws of which the great majority may never know will be enacted for breaking.

We'll say this for "Ma" Ferguson: while she may have balled up the course of justice by liberating over 3,000 convicts, she certainly lightened, as well, the burdens of the paragraphers.

There's this to be said for Mr. William Allen White's statement that President Coolidge is a mystic; he certainly has a lot of the politicians of his party mystified.

The editor of the Ohio State Journal tells us that the nickel cigar has come back, but before tackling one of them, we want him to answer this: has anybody who has smoked one?

The impression one gets from Mr. Borah's speech in criticism of the president's Nicaraguan policy is that the former's grief is due largely to the fact that Mr. Coolidge beat him to it.

And this is "Thrift" week. Sometimes we have thought it possible that the thrift business is being overdone, but be that as it may it's a cinch that the special week business is.

The sole finisher in the Catalina channel swim is but seventeen and the two girls who came nearest to their goal were also young, which rather goes to show, once more, that "youth will be served."

Statistics show that there are 22,273,643 automobiles in this country, or one to every five inhabitants, but what we can't understand is where four-fifths of our population have ridden themselves away.

Ben Lindsey may not be an advocate of free love, as charged by certain Denver ministers, and he may be satisfactory to the people of Denver as their domestic relations judge, but something tells us that, were we looking for a Sunday-school teacher we never would pick the judge.

We glean from a Washington story that Democracy is seeking a Moses, and it's our guess that, if the Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo comes upon the story, we'll soon hear of him hunting around for a supply of bullrushes.

During the past five years the state of Ohio has paid out in "adjusted compensations" to World war veterans $28,713,632, or an average of $5,742,726. Relieved of the payment of this mighty sum, one might imagine that the state government's demands for operating expenses would be lessened proportionately, but instead it wants more. The appetite of the tax-eaters is absolutely insatiable.

"Worst School in the World."

It begins to look as though we may be in for another controversy. Addressing a gathering at Newport, Rhode Island, Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, retired, told his hearers that "the naval academy at Annapolis is the worst school in the world," asserting that those responsible for the handling of the academy were not trying to turn out educated men, but merely naval officers.

Naturally this has brought retorts from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who pronounced the academy the best in the world, and other supporters of the academy, both active and retired officers.

The great trouble with Admiral Sims—possibly it would be better to say that the great handicap under which he labors in making such a charge—is that he is too much inclined to criticize and too little inclined to commend. He is not the only one in the public eye to suffer under this handicap. We see men on all sides—there are some notable examples in congress—who would be mighty powers for good and might accomplish great works were they not given to the habit of criticising, of fault-finding, which naturally prejudices their fellow-men against them to such an extent that their criticism, when justified, is passed over as to be expected and unworthy of consideration.

As a rule, the man who makes criticism his specialty, the man who can see no merit in thought, or idea, or work, which does not originate in or come through him, adds little to world accomplishment and less than nothing to the joy of living.

Our First Modernized Freighter.

From the New York papers we glean that the Tampa, the first United States shipping board freighter to be remodeled and fitted with Diesel-type engines, came through the ice-choked waters of New York harbor, Sunday, "with the ease of a taxicab negotiating city streets." It was the first voyage of the new motor-ship to the port of New York.

The officers and members of the crew of the Tampa spoke in the most enthusiastic terms of her performance. "I have sailed on three-stickers and in steam," said her captain, T. P. Taylor, "but this is the easiest ship to handle I have ever served."

The Tampa is the first boat to be refitted under a $25,000,000 appropriation of congress to modernize the American merchant marine. Thirteen other boats are to be equipped with Diesel engines.

After her first trial run off the Virginia capes on November 8 the Tampa was deemed ready for service, and additional tests were abandoned to meet the need for cargo space in moving cotton. She took a cargo of cotton from Savannah on November 25, and reached Bremen, December 8.

On the crossing to Bremen she averaged 11.8 knots, three knots beyond her rating, and on the trip here the average was 10.1 knots. The vessel arrived six hours ahead of schedule despite four days of gale.

Time may demonstrate some weakness in the motor-driven ship not recognized now, but unless such weakness is soon manifested, there can be little question that the trend to motors for ships of moderate size, at least, will be most decided. The Diesel engine works such economy of space over steam, both machine and fuel space, and gives so much greater return in power from the fuel that these features in themselves are arguments for its adoption, were the reduction which may be worked in the size of the crew not given consideration.

Twenty-five million dollars look big, but the wisdom of the expenditure of such an amount to modernize our shipping is becoming apparent. If we are to possess a merchant marine, the wisdom of this modernization can not be controverted.

Well, we see that the Hon. Gifford Pinchot has vacated the Keystone state executive mansion, but let us not delude ourselves into any fond hope that he didn't take his disposition along with him when he moved out.

There are many tales hard to credit, but perhaps the one testing our credulity to the utmost is the story that a Florida judge released nine prisoners because the jail in which they were confined was so cold that holding them within would endanger their health. What Florida judge would consider for a minute the health of nine prisoners against the reputation of "Sunny Florida," where the bright sunlight falls upon white sands and blue seas and balmy breezes blow the clock around?

Let Us Have Clean Pavements.

Our merchants may not realize it, but the manner in which many of them permit snow to accumulate upon the pavements in front of their places of business is a ground for criticism by visitors within our city, an imposition upon our citizenship and a matter of reproach generally. It is not good business, and it is not good citizenship. More than that, it is a violation of the city ordinance which requires that pavements be kept free from snow and ice. The condition of our up-town business section thus far this winter has made the section an eyesore as well as a menace to life and limb.

It is said that many of the claims for the state soldiers' bonus turned down were made by conscientious objectors, who denied they were such till confronted by their war records. Manifestly, they were far less conscientious about lying than fighting.

If the situation weren't so sad, we might be able to understand why "National Laugh" month is pulled off at a time when we have both congress and the general assembly on our hands.

Lita Chaplin was of the opinion that she could live in the style to which she has been accustomed on $5,000 a month, but the court cut her request to $4,000. It is evident that Lita's abhorrence of her husband does not extend to his money.

Somebody's always taking the joy out of life. Here's the Columbus Dispatch inclined to "think that the investigation would suggest to Judge Landis that he require that when members of winning teams care to chip in to funds for losing brethren, it be done through his office."

The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and morals has commended Mayor Walker, of New York, for his warning to theatrical producers that something must be done to cleanse the stage of that city. It's no affair of ours, but having watched Mayor Jim through the columns of the press, it strikes us that it might have begn well had our good Methodist friends withheld their commendation till the mayor delivered the goods.

Vagrant Verse.

INCOMPATIBILITY.

She loved bittersweet, and I, sea heather—
Ah, the brittle berries with their flaunting, mocking red!
Years of silent wondering: "Will time bring together
Flame and wave, alien born and bred?"

She loved city streets, and I, desert places;
Silence of the tall trees reaching toward the sky;
Rush of wind on surge and sand—no seethe of grasping faces
Gabbling and greedy, hounds in cry!

She loved pomp and change, and I, peace ageless—
Grass grown orchards and far, misty hills;
She, glinting golden bars—but my soul, cageless,
Yearned for solitude, that calms and stills.

Soft and white her slender hands—and mine, brown leather,
Bruised their tender texture—yet it might have been—
But she loved bittersweet, and I, sea heather—
And, ah! the blood and tears that lie between.

THE MARCH OF CIVILIZATION.

Gains Health with Knowledge.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Whatever my old friend, Sir George Newman, says about health is of interest to me. Sir George is chief medical officer of the English ministry of health and a recognized authority on health and hygiene.

According to Dr. Newman, "Increased sobriety, simpler and common sense dress and a general dietary improvement are making England healthier."

"Good houses, good food and a sanitary environment in working conditions make for health," he declared. Every word of this I indorse, and so must everybody who knows anything about proper living.

One of the reasons why people live longer now than they used to is because they are better housed. Not only are the houses better, but they are better ventilated, better heated and in every way cleaner.

The thick, dusty, dirt-holding carpets; the heavy hangings and the plush upholstering are largely discarded. Hard surfaced floors and easily cleaned rugs, washable curtains and simple furniture coverings have come to stay.

In every sense the houses of today are good houses, far better than our immediate parents enjoyed. They are a dozen times better than our great-grandparents had.

The fried food, the fats, the salted meats, and, particularly, the absence of fresh fruits and vegetables in the winter diet of olden times, account for the high death rate and short lives of that period. Good food, as Sir George says, has much to do with the healthier present.

The simpler and common sense dress to which he refers is certainly a factor in the improved health conditions of today. Who would return to the red woolen underwear, the thick stockings, the heavy skirts, the stifling clothing of the last generation? There can be no doubt that the lighter, simpler, common sense dress of today is helping this generation to outlive the last one.

Shops and stores, factories and mills, lofts and offices are clean, well ventilated, well lighted, free from dust and in every way suited for work in safety. The sanitary perfection of the working conditions has revolutionized industry.

I am sure Sir George will agree with me that we have not yet reached perfection. We must not be satisfied with our past accomplishments. There is much yet to be done, and in doing these things we will be assisting the march toward perfection.

We must help to spread knowledge of how to eat and what to eat. To be good teachers we must ourselves master dietary science. We must learn how to select foods and balance a meal. Let us not be satisfied with what has been done for us. On the contrary, let us learn the lessons for ourselves.

Likewise, we must study dress and its relationship to health. Sometimes it may be important to neglect style and the passing mode, because they may not be fashions which will make for health. Sir George's admonition about "common sense dress" must be our rule and guide.

This is a better world and a far better generation. But this should not satisfy us. Let's do our part to make the world and the next generation still better!

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

V. B. Q—What is the best way to get rid of a goitre?

A—In this case first consideration must be given to building up the general health. Fresh air, sunlight, well-ventilated sleeping-room, good food and a placid mind are essential to cure. Simple medication helps in many instances and other times an operation is necessary to effect a cure.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. What caused the French revolution? R. P.

A. It was mainly the result of the oppression of the French people, who rose in revolt against the extravagance and tyranny of the kings and nobles. In addition they had no adequate representation in the legislature. The taxes were heavy, and in 1777 there were as many as 1,250,000 beggars in France. Alarmed by the increasing signs of unrest in the country, the king and some of the nobles began to gather the army near Paris. This so enraged the people of Paris that they stormed the Bastille on July 14, 1789. This is regarded as the beginning of the revolution.

Q. When was the electric motor invented? C. E.

A. The invention of the electric motor is based on the discovery of Hans Christian Oersted, 1777-1851, that there is a force acting between a magnet and a wire carrying electric current. Following the discovery in 1873 of the reversible action of the dynamo and its use as a motor, efforts began to be made to apply this knowledge to the transmission of power between the years 1880 and 1884.

Q. How many kinds of snakes are there? R. G. McK.

• • •

Q. Is the mullet a fish or a fowl? M. C.

A. The bureau of fisheries says that it is a fish. The question arose many years ago when an attempt was made to restrict the catching of certain kinds of fish in North Carolina, the mullet among them. A fisherman was apprehended who had caught a mullet. His defense was that the mullet had a gizzard instead of a stomach, therefore it was a fowl. The judge agreed with him.

• • •

Q. Is the title Prince of Wales hereditary? T. M. G.

A. It is not. The hereditary titles of the British heir are: Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothsay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Great Steward of Scotland. A special creation is necessary for the title Prince of Wales. The present prince was so created on his sixteenth birthday in 1910.

Q. Which is the more popular instrument in the United States, the saxophone or ukelele? P. L. H.

A. The music dealers of Washington seem to agree that the ukelele is more popular than the saxophone in the United States judging from the sale of these instruments. This is attributed to the fact that while one can learn to use the ukelele at home by written instructions in two or three lessons, one must take lessons and practice often to play the saxophone.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The United States must soon make up its mind if it is brave enough to resist the temptation to go out and win in another competition for the establishment of the biggest navy and the biggest armament on the sea. A new mood for battleships has again seized the nations of the earth. A part of congress is caught in the fervor. Shall we join with Europe and Japan in another mad race? Shall we renounce once more our faith in human nature, just as the other nations of the earth have been doing for centuries? There is no such thing as civilization without faith in mankind.

This is written in New York where New Yorkers go to work and the rest of the United States comes to play. The ceaseless propaganda for the Pacific coast and the astounding growth and prosperity of Middle West cities are gradually changing the New York idea—a little. The New York idea has always been that the world ended abruptly at the Hudson river. Beyond that point the New Yorker proceeded with that extraordinary courage that possessed Columbus when he passed the Azores. Now there is an awakening—very gradual—to the realization that the world west of the Hudson feeds New York, keeps it alive, makes it rich, humors it sumptuously in order that it may continue to shine as the most gorgeous playground in that system of living which we loosely call civilization.

Among our many faults perhaps two are outstanding—our customary failure to face facts and our quick discouragement. Most of us are generally guilty of one or the other—sometimes both. For example, those who refuse to face facts—or do not know them—think prohibition is proving successful. To date it is, of course, a tragic failure. And the others, who do face facts, make the mistake of becoming too easily discouraged. There is just as much reason as there ever was for prohibition. If its purposes and principles were good at the start, they are good now. It is silly to be discouraged because somebody hasn't done a generation's job in a few years.

Comes now a German scientist who says the size of the universe will finally be measured. Very interesting if true. But what a problem we shall then have, measuring whatever it is that lies outside the boundaries of the universe. Think that over.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 19—Every exclusive Gotham hotel has its private register. It is the inviolable record of the great from all over America and Europe traveling incognito. When one is privileged to grace a private register it means he or she is not officially in the hotel.

Only the manager is supposed to be aware of his or her presence and the register itself is in the vault with the valuable jewels. A guest thus registered is as cloistered as though he were in a moated castle deep in an impenetrable forest.

Crack reporters have failed on assignments to find guests so listed. Not even the hotel press agents, aching to attain the first page, can help. The private register is inviolable and so far there is no record of a guest being betrayed.

Hotels do not especially solicit this sort of patronage because it means a special espionage among those "in the know" to prevent leakage. The management realizes a break-down in such protection may be disastrous to a patron seeking air-tight seclusion.

• • •

The private register, of course, would be a refuge for criminals fleeing the law, but requirements are such it is almost impossible for them to be entered on the pages. One must be entirely above suspicion.

A visiting prince, worn thin by the social merry-go-round, sought exclusion via the private register. For twenty-four hours the city was fine combed. He had come into the hotel through a servant's entrance in overalls and in the royal suite slept the clock around.

• • •

In contrast to the private register are those inns of doubtful repute where few register under real names. Fire swept through one of them one night and it was believed several persons were missing. A page of the register was inscribed on the top line with the name John Smith and wife, Hoboken, New Jersey. The rest of the page continued a line of ditto marks the full length.

• • •

The longest name recorded in a hotel register this winter is that of: Helgljorn Blevoostadt Tjornihiloupuvtin. He was an acrobat from Jugo-Slavia. He is justifiable reason for a page boy strike in any hotel.

• • •

Barber service in hotels has been enhanced by a perambulating deep leather cushioned barber chair which is rolled into the patron's room and offers the automatic reclining ease of a barber shop.

• • •

Hotel managers in New York are seldom seen by patrons. They are ensconced in some far away recess at huge glass-topped desks where they issue orders and receive reports. The huge hotel is much like a shifting, changing city and the manager is the executive head. The efficiency is so centralized he is able almost instantly to press a buzzer and learn the character of any patron or what is going on in any part of the hotel. Investments are so heavy and a damage of reputation so costly that every hotel must of necessity have an appraising eye for derelictions. The "hotel beat" which has cost hotel-keepers millions, is now almost extinct. He rarely manages to get more than a few blocks away before he receives a tap on the shoulder and an invitation to return and explain. Passers of "bouncing checks" have also practically vanished. The man who cashes a check in a New York hotel today is almost certain to be a man of unblemished reputation in money matters. It has reached the point where no hotel will otherwise take a chance.

Professor Noslot was very absent-minded. One morning he drifted into the barber's to be shaved. After the operation he continued to occupy the chair and the barber, thinking he had dozed off, gently reminded him by saying: "Asleep, sir?"

"Well," said the lady, "can your sister stand on her feet?"

"Oh, no, and her back is weak, too!" replied the young woman.

Whereupon the lady said, "I don't need any one to stand on her head. You should apply to Ringling Brothers. Perhaps they could place you."

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Down in Texas they some times have pretty bad dust storms in the dry weather. Of course there are dust storms down there at any season when the politicians or the Fergusons gets out in the road and starts operating on the body politic, but the dust storms I mean are caused by long-distance endurance-run winds blowing over dry land that has been plowed.

Well, there was a politician making a speech in Waco, maybe it was. He wanted to be governor or something, and he was talking to a crowd outdoors at a county fair. The wind was blowing hard, and there was a good deal of dust in it, but this guy could holler louder than the wind. He was telling how he loved Texas and the people of Texas and the Texas steers and all. "And I love the very soil of Texas!" he yells. And just as he said it a special gust of wind blew his mouth full of dust, so that he had to cough and choke for quite a while. So he finished up his speech as quick as he could. "I love the soil of Texas," he says, "an' that's no joke, but I don't like the taste of it worth a darn."—Copyright.

"THE King of Kings," Cecil DeMille's dramatic Biblical spectacle, which he has been making for the past year will probably cost Producing Distributors Corporation approximately $2,500,000, it is reported. Lavish sets and elaborate costumes have made for a large expenditure but the salaries paid to the cast are primarily responsible for the large total. It is estimated the weekly payroll for the 50 principals was $28,250, and at least a hundred prominent players whose names will not appear on the program were paid as high as $500 a week for as high as 10 weeks. Another group of 42 players who are not mentioned in the program drew not less than $150 a week for 10 weeks. There were about 75 actors used for bit parts who were paid $75 a day and a thousand extras were employed at from $3 to $15 a day.

Leaves Hair Twice as Beautiful

Luckily, beautiful hair is now easily obtained. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of th hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. That is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S. S. S. You owe it to yourself to try S. S. S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S. S. S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S. S. S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S. S. S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

Living Loving

CAVE WOMAN STUFF

"WOMEN make me weary!" heatedly exclaimed a young man who in an unguarded moment had allowed himself to be drawn into a discussion of the fair sex. "Not that I hold anything against them on my own account. In fact, they've always treated me rather well. But they're so darn mean to each other! The other day at a tea I witnessed the meeting between two women admittedly antagonistic. 'My dear!' cried one. 'You here? How lovely!' cooed the other. And the two rushed to arms as effusively as if they had been long lost friends instead of almost sworn enemies. A fine little exhibition of treachery it was, and most of us looking on knew it! Trust a woman? How could any one who really knew her? If ever I write an editorial I shall take for my subject 'Woman's Inhumanity to Woman!'"

As a matter of fact, the young man told us nothing new, suggested nothing we were not aware of.

Not once but often have we noticed women being "darn mean" to each other.

And if the whole truth and nothing but the truth be told, we are not blindly, unequivocally in love with the fair sex in mass, great as our fondness is for a number of its individual members.

This being so, we cannot consistently condemn the young man's attitude. As far as he goes he is certainly right. The only trouble is he does not go far enough to mark and to make exceptions to the rule. His is entirely too sweeping a generalization. If his vision was not a trifle misted by prejudice—possibly by tradition—he would undoubtedly notice that surely, however slowly, a change is taking place in woman's attitude to woman. In it there is less jealousy and suspicion and more good sportsmanship.

"THE whole new social life of women has contributed enormously to the genuine liking of women for women" declares Zona Gale in a magazine. "You cannot be on the same park board, school board, recreation committee or sanitary commission and spend much time disliking the other women members. There is too much to do . . . Women who once worked over solitary washtubs and cooking ranges, in becoming socialized to share interests and contracts with one another, have discovered women; and they like the discovery!"

Evidently Miss Gale believes ignorance has been the breeder of the ills against which have been brought complaint and treats to enlightenment to cure them.

Canto Club Ticket Sales Very Good, Reports Show

Report of the ticket sale for the Canto Club Concert in the Star Auditorium Monday night, given to W. E. Orcutt, showed that the next concert will probably be the most popular from the attendance standpoint of any presented so far. Reservations for seats for this particular concert, when Arthur Kraft, tenor, will be the soloist, have been strong. The reserve seat sale at the start of the season was heavy, and the sale of the few seats left has continued especially strong for this concert.

Arthur Kraft comes to Marion for this concert with a reputation as a tenor soloist that has been won through many years of singing in all parts of this country. Musical critics have been generous in their praise of his voice.

"Once or twice in a generation," said one reviewer regarding Arthur Kraft, "there arises a singer with a voice so naturally well placed and with a musical nature so sensitively organized that they would win world renown almost without special study or training. America has a tenor whom it is not overpraising to place in the ranks of the divinely gifted vocalists. He is Arthur Kraft."

The famous critics of New York, Boston, Chicago and elsewhere have only highest praise for his work, a composite of which might be summed up in a phrase from the New York Morning Telegraph: "Among the new singers of the day, he gives evidence of being best equipped to follow in the footsteps of Allessandro Bonci," which may be coupled with a line from the Chicago Journal: "He has a voice of fine quality and he has learned to use it with much skill."

PLANS PROGRAM

Mrs. F. J. Hunter led the discussion regarding plans for a service program for 1927 at a meeting of members of the Young Women's Bible Class, Epworth M. E. Church, held last night in the junior room of the church. Preceding the meeting a supper was served while a pleasant social hour brought the meeting to a close.

The Commissioner pressed a bell, ... answered by another gen-darme, to whom he gave instructions.

"Where is this Italian likely to be found?" inquired the Commissioner, turning to us.

We looked at each other blankly.

"We neither of us know the name of the villa," said Claypole, "but it is on the road to Lausanne, and I believe I could take you there."

The Commissioner made a gesture of impatience.

"You make our task difficult, Monsieur," he said.

"Surely," urged Claypole, "it should not be difficult to find a house of this description, especially if I accompany the officer."

"That remains to be seen," said the Commissioner. And, taking a form from a drawer in his desk, he began to write.

I stood fuming in silent amazement as his pen traveled slowly and methodically over the paper. Finally, after filling in the form, he rose, went to a door at the farther end of the room, stopping on his way out to say: "Kindly wait here a moment, gentlemen."

As soon as he had quitted the room, Claypole, who had throughout the interview been restrained and courteous in the extreme, delivered himself of a withering indictment of officials and more particularly of the officials of small countries, which I shall not attempt to reproduce, though needless to say, I heartily agreed.

After ten minutes or a quarter of an hour the Commission came back. He was still carrying the form in his hand.

"I regret," he said, "that it is not possible to proceed to the arrest of the Italian gentleman tonight. Monsieur le Juge d'Instruction for this quarter is indisposed. I have just telephoned to his wife, who tells me he cannot be disturbed until tomorrow morning. Rest assured, however, that as soon as this warrant is signed we will take the necessary action."

Claypole rose, and, controlling himself with an obvious effort, bowed to the Commissioner.

"I have one further request," he said, "which is that during our stay in Geneva, which will be as brief as possible, you will accord us police protection."

The Commissioner looked at us in astonishment.

"But surely," he protested, "every one in this city is as safe as if he were in the Chateau de Chillon. It would be difficult, indeed impossible, for me to grant a request of so exceptional a character. We have neither the men nor the money to give individual attention to every one who comes to our city. The most I can do is to inform the gendarmes on duty near your residence to take careful note of any suspicious characters."

I looked at Claypole, who made a small hopeless gesture with his hand.

"Very well, Monsieur le Commissaire," he replied. "If that is all you can do, I can but express my regret. We are living at 12 bis rue du Degre des Poules."

"I am staying—," I began, but Claypole stopped me.

"This gentleman is staying with me."

"Very good," replied the Commissioner. "I will make a note of the address," and he rose to terminate the interview.

We bowed and left the room. A moment later we were outside in the street.

"Of all the incompetent and pedantic—", I began, but Claypole cut me short again.

"I have said all that and then some, much better than you could, friend. We had better beat it quick for my lodging, and get into something dry."

Taking my arm he walked swiftly down the street. We turned two or three corners, crossed the close in front of the Cathedral, a huge ungainly building, Gothic, with a Grecian portico, and eventually came to some stone steps leading downwards under an archway. Beneath the archway was a small door, on which Claypole knocked. After some delay it was opened by an elderly woman, whom Claypole addressed in a language that sounded like German. After a short parley, she motioned us to enter and led the way up a flight of dark, rickety stairs to a bedroom, not very large, but clean and bare, containing a bed and a sofa.

I dropped down on the sofa, utterly exhausted. Claypole, however, said something to the old woman, with the result that within a few minutes she reappeared with a youth of about fourteen. They were bearing between them a small cot bed which was at once set up under Claypole's instructions.

"You'd better sleep here," Claypole remarked to me. "I don't like the idea of your remaining in that Fifth Avenue Hotel by the lakeside, at any rate not while Count Limleo's tenants are still at large."

I accordingly sent a note to the hotel by the youth, requesting that my suitcase be packed and forwarded and saying that I was going away for a few days, but desired to retain my room.

When the boy had gone off, the old woman brought in a large tin bath and hot water, with a liberal dose of mustard. Claypole and I rubbed ourselves down and he supplied me with dry things.

I was by this time too tired to wonder any more what was happening to me, and was content merely to take the gifts of the gods as they fell from heaven. Claypole, however, was quietly pleased with the efficiency which had provided him with a sure refuge in a city to which he was a complete stranger. He explained that it had all been fixed up for him before ever he had left New York, and that this place had been used by more than one secret police agent. The woman was a Swiss-German and entirely trustworthy. Her boy was dumb, but quick and intelligent.

The last thing I remember of that eventful day was trying to eat a steak and potatoes, dressed in a pair of violent-colored pajamas lent to me by Claypole, and sitting up in the larger of the two beds which Claypole had insisted on my taking.

It was nine o'clock next morning before I was roused to consciousness by a hand on my shoulder. I opened my eyes and saw standing beside the bed a wizened old man, with a gray moustache and beard, liberally stained with tobacco juice and wearing a neat and unassuming coat of black.

"Je...rouse demande pardon, Monsieur—," I began abruptly.

"Monsieur a bien dormi?" inquired the stranger.

"Mais, oui," I replied, "comme un sabot."

"Well, you'd better shake a leg and get outside some of these eats," replied the old man in brisk American, pointing to the table, on which was a breakfast of coffee, rolls and an omelette.

I sat up in amazement. Claypole, for it was he, laughed heartily.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Sits Pointed Before Her Trap

AT Dicky's entrance into the living room I saw Lillian's brows contract ever so slightly, and guessed that his appearance did not fit in with her plan, whatever it was, which had involved an expected telephone message and had required that her attire and mine be the same as they were the night before, when we visited Mary Harrison's room.

"I thought you were at that dinner which Beekman gave tonight," she said.

Dicky looked at her quizzically.

"I was," he said, "but having a job also, a wife and cheeild on my hands, I dodged the heavy artillery, and came home with only a few light rifle wounds. What's the matter, old dear? Are you peeved because I didn't stay and drink all the rest under the table?"

"Now," she drawled provokingly, "although I'll own I'd rather be better pleased if you'd delayed your homecoming for another half hour."

Dicky stared at her, then swept her a low bow:

"If I had a laurel wreath handy," he said, "I'd place it on your silver locks and declare you the holder of the championship for possessing unlimited gall. May I be permitted to inquire—"

"No, you mayn't," Lillian answered "I'm just staging one of my stunts, that's all, and you're in the way. Be a good Dicky-bird, and go into your own room and shut the door for a half hour. If you don't want to go to bed, I'll call you back again when I've finished in here."

He looked from her to me and grinned impudently.

"Well! I'm not afraid of your entertaining anybody in those rigs," he said. "They're not becoming enough. And you don't need to bother about calling me back. I'm dead tired and ready to go to my downy. You see you could have saved your cake and eredit, too, old fruit."

"You'll be here this time Martinmas" she predicted viciously, but, throwing her a kiss, he walked to his own door, and closed it behind him. As he did so, Lillian's drew a long breath.

"I wish he hadn't come home," she muttered, too low for anyone's hearing save mine. I made no comment, but I could not help a lively curiosity as to the nature of the "stunt" which she had told Dicky she was staging.

For perhaps five minutes we sat opposite each other, I pretending to be absorbed in my work, she eating the apple which she had asked of me, and looking out at the Hudson, as if she had nothing whatever on her mind. Then the telephone rang its expected peal, and she moved toward it swiftly.

"Hello! Hello!" she said. "Yes. This is Mrs. Underwood. What news?"

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it creosotes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion, in addition to creosote, contains healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchial influenza, whooping cough, croup and other throat and bronchial troubles. Ask your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to take it according to directions and that if you are not satisfied with the benefit derived from the first bottle you may return the empty bottle and get your money back. Creomulsion is now sold by druggists in more than 50 countries throughout the world. Adv.

Not only has it carried a larger volume of traffic than ever before, but it has performed this work with greater efficiency.

The men of the BIG FOUR take pride in this accomplishment, but they take greater pride in the fact that millions of people have been carried on BIG FOUR trains without the loss of life of a single passenger.

We enter a new year of service, with grateful appreciation of the helpful public cooperation that made possible the record of 1926, and with a determination to merit a still larger measure of public good will.

ABANDON PLANS FOR ADDITIONAL STREET SIGNS

Service Department Unable To Finance Purchase and Installation, Claim

Marion autoists with a propensity for trying out the pole-climbing ability of their cars will be required to confine their attacks to poles already in place, at least for another year.

City officials have decided that installation of additional street sign standards at intersections of thorough fares cannot be financed this year and as a consequence the pole climbing motorists will have to get along with the facilities now available.

Investigation has shown that a large number of the metal street sign standards, installed a number of years ago, have been either totally or partly demolished as a result of being struck by automobiles and at a recent meeting of council it was proposed that steps be taken to replace the wrecked equipment. Additional standards are also needed for signs showing the names of new streets that have been opened in outlying neighborhoods, it was stated.

Revenue Shortage

Shortage of revenue for the Department of Public Service, which would have to finance purchase and installation of the new signs, blocks the project for this year, however, and nothing can be done earlier than 1928, city officials stated today.

The matter was referred to City Engineer T. S. Cathers and a council committee and their investigation showed that there is need of improvements and additions to the street sign equipment in practically all sections of the city. Plans for going ahead with the work were abandoned, however, when preparation of the service department expense budget for 1927 was started, and it was seen that operating costs would have to be kept at the lowest possible figure.

LET FARMERS, BUSINESS MEN MAKE LAWS, URGE

Columbus, Jan. 19—"Send farmers and business men to your state legislatures, instead of lawyers, if you would have adequate laws for the punishment of criminals enacted," Judge Marcus Kavanaugh, veteran Chicago jurist and criminologist, told an audience in a lecture at Capital University here. He contrasted the crime and punishment records of Canadian cities and of Detroit, just across the border.

Old Man's Plea Granted; He's To Be Put to Death

Cherokee, Okla., Jan. 19—C. E. Marble, sturdy westerner of the old school, has had his wish granted. It means his death.

Pleading guilty to killing Gilbert Hutchinson, 14, and dangerously wounding the youth's father, "because they teased me," Marble pleaded with Judge Charles Swindall to send him to the electric chair.

"Yes, sir, the Judge is a regular fellow," says Marble as he awaits execution March 15 in the state penitentiary at McAlester. "Real accommodating, wasn't he?

"I'll tell you why. I'm blind in one eye and the other is going bad fast. I didn't want to spend the rest of my life in the 'big stir', waiting to die in blindness when the state can kill me so easily."

Judge Swindall, astounded at the plea, had two experts examine Marble. They found him normal.

"To be blind in prison would be terrible," the old man declares as the last day of his life draws near.

Y. M. C. A. SUMMER CAMP PLANS BEING FORMED

Banking System Adopted To Aid Youths in Financing Outings This Year

Plans already are being made in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. for the regular summer camp and outing to be held in July or August.

The "camp bank system" is being used this winter for the benefit of those who wish to attend the camp. Under this plan, each youth who expects to take advantage of the camp, deposits 25¢ cents weekly with the Y. M. C. A. in preparation for expenses that will be incurred next summer.

Four youths have already entered into the plan and are making weekly deposits. They are Earl Caster, Walter Rezzo, Richard Wright and Robert Vaughn.

The camp this year will be held at Hepburn as usual. Last year a large number of boys joined in the annual outing and a still greater number are expected to attend this summer.

RADIO QUEEN OF WEST IS TITLE GIVEN TO SINGER

Central Press Photo

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste", a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among people afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nights for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Kenton Property Owners Favored by Court Decision

TWO RECOURSES LEFT COUNCIL IN SEWER FIGHT

Judge H. E. Hoge, Hardin County, Ends Deliberation of Nearly Two Months

Kenton, Jan. 19—After nearly two months' deliberation, Judge Hamilton E. Hoge of the Hardin County Court of Common Pleas, announced his decision Tuesday in the matter of the assessments levied for the construction of a storm sewer in the Western Sewer District of the city.

The decision favored more than 150 property owners whose land was assessed by the city of Kenton for the improvement work.

In his decision Judge Hoge "enjoined permanently all assessments outside the Western Sewer District and enjoined assessments within the district without prejudice to council to cause a reappraisement to be made."

Two Recourses

Kenton's city council, as a result of the decision, has but two recourses, a reappraisal or an appeal. Indications are that the city will pursue the latter course although no definite assurance was given because of the absence of the city solicitor out of the city.

The case grew out of the construction by the city in 1924 of a storm sewer in the western section of the city. Upon the completion of the work and the levying of assessments, the tax payers effected filed protest declaring the assessments were not apportioned according to benefits derived. An injunction was grated by the court enjoining the county auditor and treasurer from making collections until the matter should finally be settled.

The case was heard before Judge Hoge on Nov. 22, 1926. In permanently enjoining assessments against property outside the sewer district, the court held that the petition did not call for the extension of the sewer out of the district. The court also held that the assessments did not correspond to the benefits derived.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS VOTED GREAT SUCCESS

Marseilles Organization Lays Plans for Next December at Meeting

Marseilles, O., Jan. 19—The executive committee of the Christmas tree project met Monday night at the E. M. Uncapher store. A. A. Johnson gave the use of a growing fir tree in the corner of his yard which is on the southeast corner of the square. The tree was lighted by H. A. Kinney three nights before Christmas and during the following week. A vote of thanks was extended to all those who helped in any way to make this, the first Community Christmas, a success, and also to thank the merchants who donated the candy given the children and women. A gift of $5 was given to Walter Stoop, blind musician of Upper Sandusky, who came here to lead the singing on Christmas eve.

The organization was adjourned to meet again the first week in December, with John Hartle as president and Moody Smith as secretary.

Ken Maynard; New Western Movie Hero Once Resident of Village of Prospect

KEN MAYNARD

THIS, old saying that "great oaks from little acorns grow" immediately assumes treble importance with the knowledge that Prospect, a village, very Ohioan and orthodox was once the address of a nationally known character now presented for public approval in the very wildest and weirdest of western hero styles.

The young man in Ken Maynard, recently discovered or uncorked—or whatever you say screen stars get to flickering on the silver sheet. He has been recognized by some of his former Marion County friends and acquaintances and facts disclosed substantiate Prospect citizens' claim that their village has furnished filmdom with one of its most potential stars.

Ken Maynard was one of a family of four boys, Charles, Clarence, Howard (that's our Ken—and William. This quartet during their residence of ten years at Prospect were more esthetic in their tastes it seems, than this youth that now makes things so uncertain for our long established movie villian that the latter is said to be at the point of complete destruction. The Maynard family was one of musical talents and the father, A. F. Maynard, engaged in teaching pupils during his stay in Prospect.

Members of the family have scattered. Their residence was removed from Marion County several years ago. Any schoolboy can tell you that Ken is in California ridin', two-gunnin' and lovin' his way to unprecedented fame. His father is established in business in Cleveland and trace has been lost of the remainder of the family by local and Prospect acquaintances.

Marion people will have the opportunity of seeing the boy that came from the old home county. "The Overland Stage," a western movie feature, opens a three day run at the Grand Theater Thursday and is said to confirm ever so soundly the reputation the lad has established with the severest critics. Reviews of the film promise much in the way of thrilling horseback maneuvers, fights between Indians and western pioneers and hand-to-hand struggles between vicious villains and the hero—that's our boy Ken.

Community Flag Suggested by Kenton C. of C. Member

KENTON, Jan. 19—Adoption of a community flag for use by merchants in decorating the City of Kenton on special occasions, may result from the suggestion made Tuesday by D. B. Clark, superintendent of schools, before the chamber of commerce.

Such a flag he pointed out, would mean a uniform decorative scheme in the uptown district and would appear very attractive. It would eliminate the necessity of using the American flag, as has been true in the past, except on occasions when the flag should be displayed," Mr. Clark said.

Red and white, the colors of the Kenton high school, have been suggested for the community emblem but no action generally favored the plan however definite action now awaits the report of a special committee on the cost.

Endorsing the suggestion of Supt. Clark, Horace D. Smith, merchant and former adjutant of the American Legion here, declared that such a flag would prevent the continual usage of the National emblem as has been the case when the city desired to "dress up" or special occasions. "The American flag is to be displayed only on three days during the year," said Mr. Smith, "Decoration and Flag days and July the Fourth. The flag is not a decorative emblem."

That funds might be raised for incidental expenses in the chamber of commerce, the members yesterday voted to stage a home talent production in March. Only allotted members will be included in the cast to be directed by Mrs. R. L. Hames of this city. The title of the play is, "The Woman-less Wedding."

At a meeting of the chamber directors last night they voted to join the Ohio Chambers of Commerce organization with headquarters in Columbus. The local civic body has been affiliated with the National organization for several years.

Today, the Third day of National Thrift Week, is being observed as "Budget Day."

By far the easiest way to save is to review your income and expenditures, and plan by the budget method a systematic way of controlling your expenses. Follow the lead established by our national program of budget planning.

To make an intelligent budget, it is necessary to record your cash expenditures for a time, and see whether you are not spending too much on certain items and too little on others.

Many expenses recur at set intervals, for which you pay cash from your regular income. Others, however, recur at irregular intervals and cause inconvenience unless anticipated.

One of the chief uses of a budget is to remember such inconveniences by distributing irregular expenses evenly over a period of a year. Such expenses should be listed for a year in advance and then divided by the number of pay days. In this way you can determine the exact amount to be allotted for each item each week.

These local Building and Loan Companies will assist you by putting your surplus money to work for you where it will earn money and interest. It creates a good habit, is encouraging you to save money, it increases your confidence in yourself and your credit and financial standing with others.

Remember the old saying, "A fool and his money is soon parted."

Budget your income. "Save and have."

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

THE bill introduced in the state legislature by Senator [illegible] of Cleveland, to provide a state athletic commission, will probably become a law, but some features of it will have to be amended before it is written on the state's statute books. The section which provides that "no athletic contests at which an admission is charged shall be held on Sunday" will not be a popular one.

A broad view can find no reason why Sunday baseball if it is properly conducted. We doubt that a Sunday baseball game ever kept anyone away from a religious service. This section of the proposed law can hardly be termed as any other sport than Sunday baseball. It would be a hardy promoter who would try to promote a boxing match, for instance, on a Sunday. Even in those states where there is no "blue law" prohibiting such contests on Sunday, no promoter has had the foolhardiness to suggest such a departure.

Another hard job would be to find three or five men who would be worthy of appointment to the proposed commission who would consider approving such a contest.

There are, we believe, but two states in the 48 in which Sunday ball is not permitted by law, and in these two states public opinion is fast forming to bring about the permitting of such entertainment.

We venture the guess that some law will be passed by the state lawmaking body that will create a commission to regulate and supervise sports in the state, and that the members of the commission will be men who have judgment enough to choose between the different sports and use the proper judgment as to which are fit to be played on Sunday.

It is a certainty that the bill as now worded will meet with determined opposition, not only from those who are interested in Sunday baseball as a business venture, but also from those who think that one who spends six days in the week at a desk or a work bench is entitled to recreation on the one day in the week when the office or the shop does not hold him away from sport.

• • •

Only another month and the advance guard of the army of baseball players will be on its way to the training camps.

WE like basketball, but we cannot say that the actions of Bob Shea in the game Tuesday night between the Steam Shovel and Buffalo Lincoln teams is our idea of the way to play the game. He reminded us of "Jeattle John" Kilonis, whose idea of a wrestling match is to see how hard he can butt or kick his opponent. His grandstand choking of Referee Hanson was very babylike. And after he was put out of the game, the Shovel quintet played a better game than they had while he was roughing it.

THE current show at the Hartman theatre in Columbus is "The Poor Nut" a show in which Elliott Nugent, former Ohio State student and candidate for the track squad is depicting the life of an undergraduate. In one of the scenes several supernumeraries are used in a relay race. Just before this scene, one of the directors of the play drew aside a young man dressed in a Wisconsin outfit. "In this scene, you are a track man, and to make it look good when you run, lift your legs high. Get action in your stride." "Yes, Sir," the young man meekly replied. Later the director was found on the verge of a faint. He had been giving advice on running to Phin Guthrie, one of the greatest hurdlers the American track has ever known.

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

COMING back with a punch in the last half and outplaying their opponents, the Marion Steam Shovel independent cager [illegible] night defeated the Buffalo Lincolns, 29 to 23, in the best game of the season on the local gym court.

The Shovels, completely outplayed in the first half, trailed on the lower end of a 17 to 11 score at the halfway mark. Turning the tables in the second portion of the game, the locals played the greatest game of the year and came through for a well-earned victory. The thrilling comeback was featured with brilliant basketball and furnished plenty of excitement for the largest crowd of the season.

Every man on the Shovel team displayed [illegible] basketball ability in the final half. While Compton and Schaub led the field in scoring honors, the game, each receiving three field goals Bohyer, Bacon, and Shaw played a bang up game all the way through.

Shea Thrown Out

Bob Shea of the Columbus Kilowatts, who played last week with the Shovels started the game at guard, but insisted on becoming just a trifle too "dirty" and was finally put out of the game just before the half ended. Shea's pushing and "roughing it up" featured the first half. He was ushered to the bench by Referee Hanson of Ohio Wesleyan when he attempted to stir up a fight and pulled a choking act with the official. Shea lost his temper and grabbed Hanson by the neck following the calling of a foul.

Better Without Shea

It is the opinion of the writer that the Shovel team looked twice as good on the floor without Shea, and it is noticed that the Shovels won the game in the final period when Shea was warming the bench at the east end of the floor. Shea made one field goal and a free throw in the first half and spent the rest of his time showing the Lincolns how "dirty" he could get without being caught. His unnecessary shoving and pushing ruined the game from the standpoint of a spectator who wished to witness a game of basketball, rather than a prize fight featured by fouls on the part of one of the fighters.

With Shea out of the game, the local crew displayed a passing offense that made the Lincolns look sick. At the same time they kept a defense in operation that left the Buffalos scoreless in the third quarter and allowed them only six points in the final period.

Attempt To Put Him Back

The score was 20 to 17 at the end of the third quarter when the Shovel men attempted to place Shea back in the fray. Manager Fisher of the Lincolns refused to play the remainder of the contest if Shea was allowed to again perform after being thrown off the floor on one occasion for making a fool of himself. Shea stayed on the bench and the Shovels won the battle. Had Shea gone back into the fray, it is doubtful what the outcome would have been. It is probable that the locals would have been defeated if Shea had remained in the entire contest and continued the style of play shown in the first half.

With Shea out, the last half of the skirmish was almost clear of personal fouls and was a perfect exhibition of what fans like to call a real basketball game.

Lincolns Best Team

The Lincolns were picked the best visiting team to appear on the Steam shovel court this season. Their pass work was almost flawless. Lapenna, diminutive forward, was the shining light for the Buffalo team. He was ably assisted by Miller and Cappeller. The Lincolns played clean professional basketball.

Bohyer, Shovel forward played the best game of his career with the local team. Time after time he broke up plays by actually taking the ball out of the hands of an opponent.

Lutherans Defeat Brethren In Intermediate Sunday School Games

Trinity Baptists made it five straight victories last night in the Intermediate Sunday School League when they defeated Epworth M. E. cagers 24 to 17 in a fast and hard fought battle on the Y. M. C. A. gym court.

United Brethren went down in defeat last night when the fighting Lutherans stepped on the accelerator in the final half and won by two points, 9 to 7. Calvary Evangelicals won by forfeit from the Presbyterians.

W. Merchant, Nazel, and Rife were the leading scorers of the fast stepping Baptist team last night. Merchant got four field goals and the other two ladies were credited with three each. Potter was high man for Epworths, scoring 12 points.

Close guarding featured the battle between United Brethren and Lutherans. After being held to a lone field goal in the first half, the Lutherans dropped in three buckets and a free throw in the final chapter of the game, winning 9 to 7. No outstanding stars appeared on either team, although Loeller scored five out of nine points for the Lutherans.

BARROW REPORTED TO BE CANDIDATE

New York, Jan. 19 - Reports were in circulation today that the name of Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees would be advanced as a candidate for Ban Johnson's office when the American League magnates convene on Monday to consider Johnson's most recent attack on the regime of Judge Landis.

The story had its inception in this city where Johnson succeeded in alienating Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, by his subsequent statement that he, Johnson, had his suspicions of the integrity of the 1922 world series, in which the Yankees were a participant.

LAUER TAILORS TROUNCE LA RUE ATHLETIC FIVE

Take Fifth Consecutive Game by 48 to 18 Score

Lauer Tailors of Prospect, last night trounced the LaRue Athletic Club 48 to 19 on the Prospect court. The Tailors scored five field goals before LaRue knew what it was all about and continued the pace during the remainder of the game. The half ended 33 to 1 in favor of the Tailors.

In the last half, the Prospect team let down on the basket shooting and the LaRue team showed a little more fight. But the lead was too great to overcome.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Tailor team. Wamsley and Lightner starred for the Prospect crew. Ice was LaRues best.

LEADS TEAM TO OPPOSE DAIRIES HERE THURSDAY

"Cal" Zigler

Leading the Wilmington College team for the third consecutive year, Capt. "Cal" Zigler plays both center and guard and stars in either position. He was a unanimous choice for All-Ohio non-Conference center and captain of a mythical team chosen by coaches of such schools in 1921-25. He has been declared the holder of "national collegiate scoring honors from other than the forward position". "Cal" comes here Thursday night for the Isaly game.

Wilmington College Five Will Oppose Isaly Dairy Team Here Thursday Night

Wilmington Quintet Is Composed Entirely of Ohio Youths; Cal Ziegler, Chuck Weimer and Buzzie Williams Among Stars; Dairies To Attempt Comeback

When Wilmington College basketeers stack up against the Isaly Dairies in the Star Auditorium Thursday night, Marion fans will have the privilege of viewing one of their former high school players. Paul Furniss, whose parents live at Green Camp and who attended Harding High before going to Wilmington.

Wilmington College will be the second college team to oppose Isaly Dairies this season. A few weeks ago the Dairies suffered defeat at the hands of the Georgia Tech crew here.

Wilmington College team is composed entirely of Ohio youths, many of whom have been heard of in recent years in high school basketball.

Furniss Is Junior

Paul Furniss is a Junior and is experiencing his third straight season on the varsity squad. He is not a regular, because there are no such things under Coach Shifty Bolen's style of athletic teaching. But he gets in as many games as any other athlete and is a star forward.

Cal Zigler at center a few years ago was one of the leading scorers of the Columbus East basketball team and may be well remembered by Harding High players who were in the game at that time. Cal was elected captain of the Quakers, in his sophomore year and has held the position since that time. He is now playing his last year with Wilmington. Zigler will be playing his 105th game for Wilmington when the team meet Isaacs here Thursday night.

"Chuck" Weimer Coming

"Chuck" Weimer gained probably more fame as a known athletes in southern and central Ohio high schools. He is remembered especially by those who were unlucky enough to have him on the football field or the hardwood floor. He excels at any sport and is destined to be captain of the Wilmington football or basketball team next year. "Chuck" comes from London H. where he was also a star shipped to [illegible] fans. It has been reported [illegible] mark among local [illegible] don Hi [illegible] basketball team. "Chuck" will be

Former Lima Man

"Buzzie" Williams, formerly of Lima South also be known to many in this community. Buzzie plays left guard and starts his stuff when it comes to getting the sphere off the backboard.

"Johnny" Metcalfe of Hamilton High completes the lineup. Johnny plays forward and is a world beater.

Wilmington College has won a large number of games so far this season including in its list of victims Ursuline of Florida, Mendel Tailor of Columbus, Cedarville College, Antioch College, Greenfield Independents, and Middleton Cadets. The Columbus Kilowatts defeated the Wilmington crew by a margin of six points.

What Will Dairies Do?

Just what the Dairies will do against the fast-stepping collegians cannot yet be determined. The locals have been playing rotten ball during the last three games and have lost three consecutive games. But they are bound to come out of the slump some time in season so eventually, why not now?

The Isaly quintet held a hot practice session in the Star Auditorium last night. Penny did not play with any Industrial League team and should be plenty fresh when he steps onto the floor Thursday night. In fact, we feel that if the Dairies are going to stage a comeback to their old form that comeback will be pulled Thursday night. If not, we pity Wilmington.

Coaches Play Edison

Midway Coaches will tie into Edison cagers in the preliminary event Thursday night. Edison romped over the Midways in their game in that village last Tuesday and the locals are set for revenge. It promises to be the best preliminary of the season.

Landis Storm May Blow Johnson Out of Baseball

BY GENE HOFFMAN

Chicago, Jan. 19 - Foreboding quiet prevailed along the baseball front today as Generals Landis and Johnson, principals in the pastimes bitterest feud, marshaled their forces for the titanic "showdown" battle scheduled for Sunday and Monday.

Respected local opinion is practically unanimous in the belief that when the smoke of this engagement has cleared away there will be a "help wanted" sign hung on the door of organized baseball, calling either for a new commissioner, or a president of the American League. The odds favor the latter.

The feud between Ban Johnson, fiery proxy of the junior circuit, and the mild but firm Judge Landis, dates back six years. Since then several heady flareups have threatened to remove one or the other from his high position in baseball. But each time mediators managed a conciliatory peace.

The present crisis was precipitated by the Cobb-Speaker scandal, which "broke" a short time after the widely advertised harmony meeting of major league officials, at which Landis and Johnson were photographed, arm in arm, a veritable Damon and Pythias.

After the Cobb-Speaker explosion set the public to asking a lot of questions which none seemed inclined to answer along came Johnson with the charge that Commissioner Landis alone was responsible for clouding the executions of Cobb and Speaker, and that he was trying to "pass the buck" to the American League.

Landis has called a session with Johnson for Monday and Johnson retaliated by issuing a call for a special session of the American League on the preceding day.

"It looks like a merry session Monday," Johnson said today, which was taken to mean that the American League officials will attend the Landis party. "I stand by every charge I have made" he continued, "and I am prepared to prove everything I say."

Landis was back in town today from French Lick, Ind., where he attended the Major Minor League meeting. But he refused point blank to talk. As one observer put it, "he doesn't intend to fire until he sees the whites of Johnson's eyes."

The general belief that the storm will blow Johnson out of his $40,000 a year job is based on the by laws that govern the game. President Johnson has stated that he will not turn over to the commissioner certain documents which he possesses unless forced to do so in a United States court. Section 2 of the baseball code says:

"The functions of the Commissioner shall be as follows:

"To investigate, either upon complaint or upon his own initiative any act, transaction or practice charged, alleged or suspected to be detrimental to the game, with authority to summon persons and to order the production of documents; and, in case of refusal to appear or produce, to impose such penalties as are hereinafter provided."

The punishment "in the case of any Leagues or of any Major or Minor League club, may extend to suspension or removal."

It is further charged that Johnson has violated the pledge to support the commissioner which was drawn up and signed by Major League officials on Jan. 12, 1921. Johnson's name heads the list. This pledge reads in part:

"We, the undersigned, pledge ourselves loyally to support the commissioner in his important and difficult tasks; and we assure him that each of us will acquiesce in his decisions, even when we believe them mistaken, and that we will not discredit the sport in public criticism of him in any way."

ANDERSON OUT

Wooster's Center Suffering With Broken Arm

Wooster, Ohio, Jan. 19 "Shorty" Anderson, Wooster's six foot, four inch center, is out of the game for the rest of the season. The radius bone of Anderson's right arm was broken just above the wrist in the game with Reserve at Cleveland last Saturday. Wooster won 34 to 25.

Big Bill West crashed into Anderson when the Wooster center had gone up into the air for a short shot. When Anderson hit the floor his right arm was doubled under. Wooster fans recall that in the Reserve game at Wooster last season West put "Pete" Blough out of commission on the same kind of a play. A blood vessel in Blough's hand was broken.

Coach Hole must find a center to play against Denison at Wooster Saturday.

"I'll take an icicle for a cane and lean on that as I slide over the pond," said Mr. Longears. "If I can't skate I can slide." He broke off a long icicle and started to cross the duck pond. But he was only half way over when, looking back, he saw coming after him some sort of animal.

"My goodness!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, "that's the Bob Cat I do believe. He's after me! I must run and get away!" Uncle Wiggily ran as fast he could, but even a rabbit cannot run fast on the ice and Mr. Longears slipped and fell down several times. "Oh, if I only had a pair of skates!" cried the bunny. "Then I could get away from this bad chap."

He looked at the long icicle he was using for a cane. A happy thought came to him as he sat on the ice, for he had fallen down again.

"I'll break off two pieces of this icicle and make skates of them," said the bunny. No sooner said than done! With string from his pocket, Uncle Wiggily fastened on his feet pieces of the icicle. When the strange animal was close behind him the bunny jumped up and away he skated over the duck pond.

"Wait! wait for me!" cried the animal behind him. But Uncle Wiggily laughed as he answered:

"You can't catch me now! I have on my icicle skates!" and off he glided. But just as he reached the other side of the pond, the bunny's icicle skates broke and he tripped and fell. The animal behind him rushed up, caught hold of Uncle Wiggily and bleated:

"Why did you run away from me?" Lo and behold! It was Uncle Butter the goat, with a false face like the Bob Cat that the goat had bought to go to a masquerade party with Aunt Lettie.

"My! How you surprised me!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. Then he made himself some more icicle skates and he and Uncle Butter glided on over the pond together. And if the jumping jack doesn't upset the milk bottle and catch the butterfly in the mosquito net I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's cup of tea.
